SKI TOURING - HAUTE ROUTE CHAMONIX ZERMATT IN 3 DAYS

Duration: 3

Fitness: ▲▲▲▲▲ Technique: ▲▲▲▲▲

Price from: 1 205 €

This 3-day version of the Haute Route Chamonix-Zermatt is a condensed adaptation of our classic 6-day itinerary. It follows a route similar to the classic Haute Route but with doubled stages, making this adventure distinctly athletic. Given the daily distances, staying on schedule is crucial to meet this challenge. To complete this version of the Haute Route, it's essential to maintain a climbing pace of 500 meters per hour, have experience with outings involving over 1,500 meters of elevation gain, and be perfectly comfortable managing your equipment. This 3-day Haute Route is particularly suited for those preparing for races like the Patrouille des Glaciers. While competition gear is not necessary, we strongly recommend using lightweight equipment.

To help you prepare for ski mountaineering races, our team of specialists is also available to offer their expertise in developing customized training programs and providing nutritional advice. For more information, feel free to contact us.

ITINERARY

Day 1

Argentière - Champex

Starting from the Grands Montets station (Argentière), we take the Plan Joran and then the Herse cable cars. We descend on the piste to near the Lognan refuge (2,050 m). Then, we cross the Argentière Glacier and ascend to the Col du Passon (3,028 m). We continue skinning up the Glacier du Tour to reach the Col Supérieur du Tour (3,289 m). We cross the Trient Plateau before making a short ascent to reach the Col des Ecandies (2,796 m). The descent follows through the Val d'Arpette down to Champex (1,480 m), where we spend the night in a hotel. In case of particularly mild conditions, it may be necessary to stay the previous night at the Lognan refuge, located within the Grands Montets ski area (not included in the price).

Positive elevation gain: 1,600 m / Negative elevation: 2,100 m / Duration: 6 to 7 hours

Day 2

Champex - Arolla

We take the cable cars up to the Col des Gentianes. After a brief descent on the piste, we ascend to the Col de la Chaux (2,940 m), followed by a short descent to the foot of the Col de Momin (3,003 m). We then climb to the col and cross the Glacier du Grand Désert to reach the Col de la Rosablanche (3,192 m). We descend directly to La Barma (2,458 m) via the Rosablanche couloir. The route continues along the Lac des Dix, followed by a climb to the Pas de Chèvre (2,854 m). We finish the day with a descent to Arolla (2,006 m), where we spend the night in a hotel.

Positive elevation gain: 1,600 m / Negative elevation gain: 2,100 m / Duration: 6 to 7 hours

Day 3

Arolla - Zermatt

We ascend to the Col de Bertol (3,268 m). We cross the Mont Miné Glacier with skins to reach the summit of Tête Blanche (3,707 m). We then descend to Zermatt (1,690 m), with an expected arrival in the early afternoon.

Positive elevation gain: 1,707 m / Negative elevation: 2,017 m / Duration: 7 to 8 hours
