Duration: 2

Fitness: ▲▲▲▲▲ Technique: ▲▲▲▲▲

The area around the Albert 1er hut is the perfect destination for exploring the mountains and their glaciers. Easily accessible via the Balme-Vallorcine ski lifts, this area offers a breathtaking immersion into the icy world of glaciers. Our program includes a night at the Albert 1er hut and takes a fun, friendly approach focused on exploration. Our program is specifically designed for families who want to discover the world of glaciers and experience a night in a mountain hut. It also provides a great opportunity to learn basic mountaineering techniques, such as using crampons and ice axes.

The Tour Glacier area offers numerous possibilities, and the outlined trip can easily include an additional night in the hut if you'd like to extend your stay. Don't hesitate to contact us if you'd like to customize your program.

ITINERARY

Day 1

Walk up to the Albert 1er hut

Start in the village of Le Tour (1450m). We use the ski lifts to take us up to near the Col de Balme (2100m). We take a comfortable path that starts with a traverse before following the moraine of the Tour glacier to the Albert 1er hut (2702m). The hut was renovated in 2014 and we hope you will appreciate the level of comfort and the views from the terrace at sunset.

Vertical ascent: 600m

Day 2

Ascent of the Tête Blanche

We head out by the light of our headtorches. We quickly reach the Tour glacier. We walk up the gentle slopes of the glacier to the summit of the Tête Blanche (3429m). Having taken in the stunning panoramic views across the Aiguille du Chardonnet (3824m) and the Trient glacier (3200m) we return to the hut and the village of Le Tour via the same route.

Vertical ascent: 715m / Vertical descent: 1320m
