Price from: 470 €

Ice climbing is often perceived as an inaccessible activity... Give it a try! With our ice climbing discovery course, you will find that it is, in fact, quite an enjoyable activity. The Chamonix Valley offers sites that are particularly well-suited for a safe introduction. The program includes a day on the Mer de Glace and a day at the Cascade de Bérard site in Vallorcine. Thanks to our partner Grivel, all technical equipment, except for shoes, is provided: ice axes, crampons, helmets, and harnesses. The program features a friendly atmosphere and good cheer as you explore a magical, crystalline world with crampons on your feet and an ice axe in hand. Depending on your availability, we also offer day trips for ice climbing.

The educational objectives of the beginners ice climbing course

- Learn about the equipment and the basic skills of ice climbing
- Learn belay techniques
- Learn to be autonomous on top rope, climbing French grad 3-4.
- Initiation to lead climbing on ice

ITINERARY

Day 1

A day on the Mer de Glace, accessed via the Montenvers train followed by the Glacier cable car. The Mer de Glace is the perfect setting to learn ice climbing techniques, offering a variety of terrains ranging from gentle slopes to impressive vertical walls. After a 30-minute walk, you'll be ready to explore this unique site. This day will also give you the opportunity to deepen your understanding of glaciers: observe moulins and meltwater channels, study the formation of moraines, and discover the tangible impacts of climate change on the Alps. Return and overnight stay in an inn in Chamonix.

Day 2

We take the train to Vallorcine and reach by foot (20') the site of Berard. The Bérard icefall crag site is entirely man-made. It was developed by members of the Compagnie des Guides de Chamonix, helped by a collective. They set up a system of heated pipes to provide reliable water supply. Every evening the sprinklers are turned on so that the ice forms. Only one parameter remains uncontrollable: the temperature! Fortunately, thanks to its inertia, once formed, the ice at the Bérard site is resistant, to a certain extent, to periods of warmth. Top-roping climbing and initiation to lead climbing. Return to Chamonix in the middle of the afternoon.
