ICE CLIMBING - BEGINNER ICE CLIMBING COURSE

Duration: 2

Level: ▲▲▲▲▲

Price from: 370 €

Ice climbing is often perceived as a very physical activity, in short, inaccessible. Try the experience, thanks to our beginners ice climbing course, and you will find that this is far from the case and is actually rather fun. The Chamonix Valley has two crag sites that are perfectly suited to discover this activity in complete security. The approaches on foot are short and the waterfalls are numerous and varied. At the heart of the Chamonix valley, you will progress at the Crémérie in Argentière and the Cascade de Bérard in Vallorcine. Thanks to our partnership with Grivel, all technical equipment (with the exception of high mountain boots) is provided: ice axes, crampons, helmet and harness. On the program: conviviality and good humour, with crampons on your feet and an ice axe in your hand you will discover this magical crystalline universe. Depending on your availability, we also offer single-day introduction to ice climbing.

The educational objectives of the beginners ice climbing course

- Learn about the equipment and the basic skills of ice climbing
- Learn belay techniques
- Learn to be autonomous on top rope, climbing French grad 3-4.
- Initiation to lead climbing on ice

ITINERARY

Day 1

We take the road to Vallorcine and reach by foot (20 ') the site of Berard. The Bérard icefall crag site is entirely man-made. It was developed by members of the Compagnie des Guides de Chamonix, helped by a collective. They set up a system of heated pipes to provide reliable water supply. Every evening the sprinklers are turned on so that the ice forms. Only one parameter remains uncontrollable: the temperature! Fortunately, thanks to its inertia, once formed, the ice at the Bérard site is resistant, to a certain extent, to periods of warmth. Top-roping climbing and initiation to lead climbing. Return to Chamonix in the middle of the afternoon. You spend the night in an inn.

Day 2

Meeting point at Chamonix. We take the road to Les Grands Montets (Argentière), where we leave by foot (30 ') for the Crémérie, which is ideal for discovering.
