TRAIL - WEEKEND IN CHAMONIX

Duration: 2

Fitness: ▲▲▲▲▲ Technique: ▲▲▲▲▲

Price from: 150 €

During these two days, the mountain guide specialized in trail running will lead you through a magnificent landscape surrounded by world-renowned peaks and glaciers. Equipped with trail-specific gear (light backpack, poles, trail running shoes, etc.), we explore various trails as a group while exchanging insights on the specific techniques related to the discipline and terrain. Several popular topics, addressing aspects such as nutrition, equipment, sleep management, and pacing, facilitate engaging discussions that contribute to your progress.

The objective of these two days of mountain immersion is to acclimate your body to the specific demands of ascents and descents in a technical environment and enhance its experience in managing changes in rhythm and temperature associated with the surroundings. Of course, we take the time to admire the unique panorama of the valley, while respecting the tranquility of the existing wildlife when passing through nature reserves where chamois, ibexes, and marmots have made their home. The combined kilometers and elevation gain, coupled with the specific mountain environment—dry air, reduced humidity, significant temperature variations, altitude—require the body to adapt. These two days of trail running serve as a perfect warm-up and excellent preparation for your future mountain projects. Depending on the weather, the runners' abilities, and their expectations, the itinerary may evolve from day to day.
