SKI TOURING - MONT BLANC

Duration: 3

Fitness: Technique:

Skiing the Mont Blanc: An unforgettable experience

Skiing the Mont Blanc is a once-in-a-lifetime adventure, set amid breathtaking landscapes. Nothing compares to putting on your skis at the summit and skiing down the north face — a truly extraordinary experience. This iconic challenge requires strong ski mountaineering skills and solid mountaineering basics. Our three-day ascent is designed to take full advantage of optimal conditions. It efficiently manages physical effort and takes into account changing mountain conditions, making the return to Plan de l'Aiguille a challenge in itself.

Skiing the Mont Blanc: A demanding challenge

Skiing the Mont Blanc is far more physically demanding than climbing it in summer, due to the extra weight of gear and the effort required for the descent. Proper acclimatization is essential to help your body adapt to altitude and fully enjoy the adventure. While our standard program does not include a dedicated acclimatization period, we can tailor it to your specific needs. Contact our advisors to plan a personalized ascent and make the most of this unforgettable experience.

ITINERARY

Day 1

Ascent to the Grands Mulets hut

Departure from the Aiguille du Midi Cable Car. We stop at Plan de l'Aiguille (2,310 m). A long traverse underneath the north face of the Aiguille du Midi leads toward La Jonction and the Glacier des Bossons. The Grands Mulets Hut then appears, perched on a rocky promontory in the heart of the high mountains. Overnight at Grands Mulets Hut (3,051 m).

Vertical ascent: 950m

Day 2

Summit and return to the Grands Mulets hut

We start at first light from the hut, ascending via the classic "Plateaux" route or, if conditions allow, the north arête of Dôme du Goûter (bootpacking, slopes up to 40°). Ski up to Abri Vallot (4,362 m), then either make a round trip on foot to the summit via Arête des Bosses or ski down the north face. Whatever the conditions, we return to the hut via the Grand and Petit Plateau. Second night at the hut.

Vertical ascent: 1,750 m - Vertical descent: 1,750 m

Day 3

Second part of the descent

We have a late start and go back to Plan de l'Aiguille or ski down to the Mont-Blanc tunnel if snow is sufficient. Vertical descent: 850m or 1 750m
